Steel ministry wants states to ensure free movement of alloy

SURYA SARATHI RAY
New Delhi, March 24

EVEN AS COVID-19 causes states and cities to battle Covid-19 with lockdowns and travel restrictions to ensure social distancing, the steel ministry has written to state governments to issue instructions so that essential steel industries, including the un-sanned restricted iron and steel units, do not face any restrictions in sourcing raw materials and finished products from across the country.

On Tuesday, Secretary in the steel ministry, Ajay Kumar, wrote to chief secretary of all states to ensure that unregistered iron and steel units are provided with raw materials and can continue to supply finished products.

On Tuesday, according to Kumar, the steel ministry has been receiving several complaints about the closure of essential iron and steel units affecting the supply chain.

“Considering the importance of steel industries in providing raw materials to various industries, as well as finished products which are essential for any industry to function properly, the steel ministry is writing to all the states,” said Kumar.

In this regard, Kumar requested the states to issue instructions so that unregistered iron and steel units do not face any restrictions in sourcing raw materials or finished products from across the country.

The steel ministry has also asked the states to issue instructions so that the transporters and other supporting personnel who are engaged in supplying raw materials to the unregistered iron and steel units are not stopped by the law enforcers, and the transport of finished products from these units is allowed.

The ministry has also asked the states to issue instructions so that essential industries are given priority in the movement of goods, and the transport of essential goods is allowed.
